

PAUL STANLEY'S BANDOLOGY

INCUBUS (c.1966)

Neil Teeman
Drums

Paul Stanley
R. Guitar/Vocals

Matt Rael
Lead Guitar

Incubus was what Paul would refer to as being his first real band, though when he started out he still didn't really know how to play guitar. Since they didn't know any bassists, there was no bassist in the band. Incubus would change their name to Uncle Joe, and the members would not change.

UNCLE JOE (1967 – 1970)

Neil Teeman
Drums

Paul Stanley
R. Guitar/Vocals

Matt Rael
Lead Guitar

During the time of Uncle Joe, Paul meets Gene for the first time. Gene even plays with Uncle Joe one night. Uncle Joe did record, such as "Stop, Look, And Listen", a song that had been made up on the spot in the studio, some material, but most of it was not recorded properly – hit record 'n play. Paul also played with other bands around this time.

POST WAR BABY BOOM (1967 – 1968)

Paul Stanley
R. Guitar/Vocals

Jon Rael
Lead Guitar

Maxine
Vocals

Unknown
Bass

Unknown
Drums

Before long Paul 'graduated' Matt Rael's older brother's band Post War Baby Boom who actually recorded a demo at CBS/Columbia in hopes of getting signed. Paul's song "Never Loving, Never Living" was recorded at this time, but the band did not last.

TREE (1969)

Paul Stanley
R. Guitar/Vocals

Stephen Coronel
Lead Guitar

Marty Cohen
Bass

Stan Singer
Drums

Working with Stephen for the first time, and with other members who had worked with one Gene Klein, earlier that year in the band Cathedral, the circle was closing. By the end of "Tree" both Paul and Stephen joined Gene in Rainbow...

RAINBOW

PAUL STANLEY SOLO BAND #1 (Feb. '89 – March '89)

Paul Stanley
R. Guitar/Vocals

Dennis St. James
Bass

Bob Kulick
Lead Guitar

Eric Singer
Drums

Gary Corbett
